Partnership Provides Training Opportunity for Firefighters

BRIGHTON, Colo.— A partnership between Brighton Fire Rescue District, the City of Brighton and the Brighton Urban Renewal Authority (BURA) is providing a useful training opportunity for Brighton firefighters. This week firefighters are undergoing Search & Rescue trainings at 880 S. Main St., also commonly known as the Smith Property. BURA reached out to Brighton Fire to see if it would like to use the property as a training site before the site is demolished. Brighton Fire gladly accepted the opportunity and has planned trainings in the building throughout the week of September 12th. Brighton Fire would like to thank the City of Brighton and BURA for the opportunity to train at the property. To view more pictures of the Search & Rescue training visit brightonfire.org.
